

Siloam Mission buys the Madison in Wolseley

April 12, 2011 | cbc.ca

A downtown Winnipeg Christian group that cares for the city's homeless has purchased a Wolseley-area apartment block notorious for problem activity and sometimes extreme violence.

Siloam Mission has purchased the Madison apartment block on Evanson Street — and the deal comes with a promise safety will increase.

In the coming year, Siloam will renovate the four-storey building top to bottom to meet building code specs and provide a dignified space for people to call home.

The mission intends to shift some people from its Princess Street shelter to the Madison once renovations are completed. The agency plans to spend $1.5 million on the project.
